Religion, Gastronomy and Foot Ba Were the Prevailing Features. Thanksgiving day was celebrated yesterd: in much the same way as has been the custo during former years. Church services we held at the Grace Episcopal and the Congr gational churches in the forenoon, Graand St. Paul's churches uniting at the forms place, and all the other Protestant church at the latter. At Grace church the sermon was preached by Rev. L. H. McDonald, rector of St. Paul's church, and special music was rendered by the choirs of the two churches. At the Congregational church the sermon was preached by Rev. A. L. Sarchet, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, the opening and closing exercises being assisted in by Rev. J. H. Senseney, Rev. V. C. Rocho and Rev. Conrad Hooker. At the close a col-lection was taken for the poor of the city, and a saug sum realized. It will be put into circulation at once, and many who were without any of the luxuries, and perhaps most of the necessities, to make yesterday a day of feasting and pleasure, will find cause for thanksgiving, even if a little late.

The war with turkey, of course, occupied The war with turkey, of course, occupied the thoughts of most people during the middle of the day, and by the time victory had perched on the banners of the people, they were ready for some other sort of pastime. In the evening a number of entertainments were given, all of which were well patronized. At Trinity Methodist church there was an entertainment of a literary and musical nature. Miss Maude Hazen's class in physi-cal culture and delsarte went through a beautiful drill, and Master Arthur Goff as-sisted in the musical portion of the program by several comic solos.

A pleasant entertainment was also given at the Christian tabernacle. Every one who come contributed something in the shape of provisions at the door, and by this means large amount of catables were secured, which will be distributed among the poor. St. Agnes' guild gave a social in the guild rooms at Grace church.

NEBRASKA CITY TAKES A SCALP.

Decidedly the most holly contested game of foot ball witnessed in this city this year was played yesterday morning at the Field ciut grounds. The fact that this was the lasgame of the season, and that Council Bluff had not yet a taste of defeat, was orange and white floating around, was largely in evidence. Both teams were on their metile, as the score, 4 to 0 in favor of Nebraska City, amply shows. Nebraska City had the advantage of their opponents in weight by about fifteen pounds, one of its striking features being a center rush whose Nebraska City chose the east goal and Council Bluffs kicked off. In the kickoff a gain was made toward the Nebraska City Washington avenue, about 10 o'clock Wednesday night. Miss Sprink had just came home and gone into the citting room, when she saw the face of a woman at the window. The woman saw her at the same time and beat a histy retreat. On making a search around the promises footprints were found in the smow of both a man and a woman.

Some repairs are being made in the Congregational church by putting in new underpinning under the basement. The building was made to sink by a flood which occurred some time ago, and when a measurement was made it was found that the center pews were about two and one-half inches below those at the sides and ends. While the repairs are being made all the church services are being made all the church services are being made all the church services are being made in the main room.

Al Rider, the Nebraska City left end, went around the left end for twenty-five yards, but was tackled successfully by Everest and downed, Jones of Council Bluffs getting the ball. Hess made an end run, galning fifteen yards, but ran out an end run, gaining fitten yards, but ran of fines. Rider broke through Council Bluffs' tackle and blocked Everest's attempted punt. Nebraska City bucked the line and made a small gain, then Morehouse tackled and dragged both man and ball back fully three yards. Nebraska City tried to punt and falled, but kept the ball. The first half ended without either side scoring. In the second half Nebraska City kicked off. Everest caught the ball and made a good run, gaining twenty yards. Stuart made twenty yards through the center with good interference. Council Bluffs lost the ball at the center of the field. Hess broke through the center of the field. Hess broke through a lawyer and that he represented and tackled the Nebraska City back behind the line for a loss. Price got the ball for Otoe county on a fluke, and then was pushed through for a touchdown, near touch-in-goal. A dufficult goal was missed. Score: 4 to 0.

off, Nebraska City failing to gain on catching the punt. The remainder of the half was taken up in argument between the teams, or parts of the teams, and considerable dissatis-faction was expressed at the work of the ref-erce. A Nebraska City man was tackled, and about the same time Hess took the ball from him, ran twenty-five yards, was downed, had the ball put in play, ambled behind the goal, tried to kick goal, and failed, and claimed four points. It was not allowed. Nebraska City was penalized fifteen yards for off-side play, and the ball at the close of the half was near the center. In the second half the Ne braska City team kept the ball in its hands all the time, making the requisite five yards in three downs by steadily bucking. GUNS WERE NOT LONG ENOUGH. Henry Paschal Fails to Identify the Firearms Shoved at Him. Yesterday morning at an early hour three men went into Soenke Boysen's saloon, at the corner of Sixth street and Sixteenth avenue, and called for the drinks. They were accommodated, but when they had duly put the liquor out of sight they declined to pay for it. Boysen tried to force them into paying, and all three drew guns out of their hip pockets and leveled them at his head. None of the firearms exploded, but the rapidity with which Boysen tumbled backward out of sight is said by eye wit-nesses to have been very great. Nothing more was said about paying, and in the confusion the three made their escape. Later in the morning they were arrested and taken to the city jail, where they gave their names as Harry Wade, Van Wade and Wal-ter Meyers, and their residence as 1619 South Ninth street. On being searched, each one was found to have a revolver tucked away in his clothing. The size of the three men corresponded very well with the three men who iried to hold up a man Wednesday night at the cor-ner of Sixth street and Willow avenue. As stated in The Bee yesterday morning, the man who ran away and thus escaped being held up, refused to give up his name to the place. But yesterday, when asked about it, Henry Paschal, jr., admitted blushingly that he was the man. When he heard that the three suspects were in custody he paid a visit to the city jail and looked at them. He was unable to say anything positively, further than that there was no reason why they could not be the men. He then took a look at the revolvers, but remarked that he did not believe they were the right ones, as he was sure the one he looked at Wednesday night was at least three feet in length and six inches in width at the muzzle.

HENRY RODDIS' STRANGE CASE

Iowa Business Man Accused of Having a

Dark History.

Himself.

CHEROKEE, Ia., Nov. 28 .- (Special.) --Never was the city of Cherokee in such a fever of excitement as at present, and never was there a more mysterious case so suddeply flashed upon a community than the one in question. In this city lives a quiet and highly respected gentleman, whose presence for thirty long years has been a pleasure to his friends and associates, and who has always been known as one of the most modest and moral men in the country. The individual referred to is Henry Roddis, secretary of the Citizens' Life association and a man of much business ability.

The cause of the sensation is an article that appeared in the Milwaukee Sentinel Sunday, November 24, a brief sketch of which was sent to the Associated press and appeared in a great many of the large publications throughout the country on the same date. The writer accuses Henry W. Roddis of deserting his wife and two children at him to purchase stock for his uncle's busi-

STORY OF THE FAMILY. These statements, together with a great many more minor ones, are flatly denied by members of the family. George E. Roddis, the eldest son, was seen by a reporter at his office in this city today, and he flatly denied everything, saying that it was the culmination of an unsuccessful attempt to blackmail his father. The Roddis side of the story runs about as follows: About a year ago a grizzly-looking sort of an Individual, whose appearance would suggest that he had spent most of his days in a brewery, called upon Roddis at his office in Cherokee, and as politely as possible informed him that he was a lawyer and that he represented Mrs. Rod-case a settlement was reached the affair would be kept a secret. Supposing that the man was crazy Roddis kept at a safe distance, lest he might fall a victim to the maniac, and when the epportunity presented he excused himself under the pretext that his office work was crowding him. He called upon Roddis the next day and informed him that through sympathy he had concluded to reduce the demand to $10,000 and would grant him thirty-six hours grace in which to raise the amount but before leaving the office, after an urgent scuest made by Mr. Roddis for him to do to, he was willing to accept $5,000 and say to more about it, and that if the money was not forthcoming he would publish him to the

ALL DEMANDS REFUSED. The demand was refused and the individual left the city. In a short time Roddis received a communication from Milwaukee from which an inference could be taken that any money consideration would be ac-ceptable, amount notwithstanding. Roddis now thought that he was being made the victim of an attempted blackmailing scheme and paid no attention whatever to any of the accusations or communications, the au-thor of which has made use of the public prees as threatened.

The Milwaukee lawyer declares that Rod-dis is dodging about the country to avoid arrest and that a sleuth is now on his trail this katement, as all others, is or his whereabouts are known to both th officers and a good many citizens, and if there is anybody looking for Roddis and cannot find him, he can gain all the required nformation he may want by calling or addressing George B. JEFFERSON, In , Nov. 28 .- (Special.)-It is now believed that the man found dead in a cornfield near Scranton a month ago was not murdered, as supposed, but died and was left there by his wife. About four weeks prior to the discovery two women passed through here in a covered wagon and said the husband of one of them was lying in the wagon, very sick. At Scranton they told the same story, and it was learned that the man had been kicked in the head by a horse and his skull crushed so badly he could survive but a few hours. The women were utterly destitute. That was the last seen of them. They drove out of town on a road that led by the field, where the body was afterward found. The skull was crushed as if kicked, but nothing of an identifying nature could be found on or about it. Until today it was believed the man had been murdered; now it is thought the man died shortly after leaving Seren ton, and having neither money nor friends, the women drove into the cornfield and deposited the body on the ground.

Iowa Educators to Meet. DES MOINES, Nov. 28 .- (Special.)-Th annual meeting of the State Teachers' association of Iowa will be held here December 31 and January 1 and 2. The programs for the meeting have just been issued. It will he by far the largest gathering of the educators of the state ever held. Letters and advices received indicate that there will be about 2,000 in attendance, and in order to accommodate the numerous divisions there will be twenty-three places of meeting. The main assions will be in the Young Men's Christian association auditorium. Hotels are making plans for the greatest rush ever seen in the city, as the crowds in advance of

The call for the annual moving of the Iowa Agricultural society has been issued, and January 6, 7, 8 and 9 are named as the dates for the meetings. It is expected there will be a lively time, for some of the leaders in the organization want a change, and want at very much. They feel that the failures of the fairs of the last three years warrant them in the opinion that a change of management and plans is needed and will urge that it be granted. In connection with the meeting there will be an exhibit of the best corn, grain, grasses and seeds produced in the state in the past season, for which liberal premiums are offered. eral premiums are offered. Career of a Young Murderer.

DES MOINES, Nov. 28 .- (Special.) -- An application has been filed with Governor Jackson for a pardon for John W. Elkins, on of the prisoners in an Iowa penitentiary charged with murder in the first degree Elkins is one of the most famous criminals in the state. Six years ego, when he was a boy of 11 years, living on a farm in Clayton county with his parents, he committed the brutal and cold blooded murder of both his father and mother. He had desired to go to a dance one night, and was forbidded and sent to bed. After his father and mother had retired he came downstairs, got a shot gun and axe, and went to the sleeping room of his parents. He loaded the gun and poured its contents into his father's head; poured its contents into his father's head; then he split his mother's head open with the axe. After the crime, he took his in-fant brother with him to the barn, saddled a horse, and with the child in front of him rode to the next neighbor, to whom he told of the murder of his parents by two men, and of his escape. The story was believed. The investigation of the case, however, developed no evidence as to the identity of the mur-The boy was examined closely get at facts concerning the murderers, and his stories failed to agree on different occasions. The county attorney had him arrested, and he at last confessed. He was sent up for life, and in the penitentiary has been a terror to everybody. He is a thor-ough criminal; his face tells the story of murder and malice toward all he comes in contact with. The men in the prison are afraid of their lives when he is around, for he has threatened to murder one or two of he has threatened to murder one or two of them, and nobody doubts he would do it if he had a chance. The pardon asked for him is on the ground that he was so ex-tremely young when convicted, and that he has served six years, which should be ample

To Relocate the Soldiers' Monument. DES MOINES, Nov. 28 .- (Special.)-There s serious talk of an effort to have the Iowa Soldiers' monument moved to a new site. The monument is hardly completed vet, but the commission in charge of the work is so disgusted with the site that it will try to induce the legislature to secure a new tion and move the structure before finishing it. There have been endless griefs connected with the construction of the monument. The commission disliked the site, and for four years would not commence work, hoping for a change. But the change wasn't made, and the legislature finally demanded that the work be pushed. It was done. Now the shaft is completed and is very handsome; the art works to adorn it are being made, and everybody who has seen the monument wants The commission is especially urgent and will undoubtedly place the mat-ter in some definite form. The location of the work is just south of the capitol, where it could not be seen unless special pains were taken. The piece will have cost about $110,000 when it is done, and it has been stated by the contractors that they could take it down and put it up again in a new place for $25,000. A strong effort will be made to get the legislature to give the sum.

Law Makers Will Caucus. DES MOINES Nov. 28 .- (Special.)-It is possible that a conference of some of the leading members of the new legislature will be held here before the opening of the session of the body to consider the plan for carrying on its work. The plan will proba-bly be to ask all members who can do so to attend the meeting. It is supposed a fair representation of the body would be brought together. There is no information as to the views of the members from which it is pos-sible even to conjecture what they will desire to do with the important matters before them. It is certain a special session must be held, either immediately after the regular one or the following winter. Some of the state officers believe that in four months of hard work, without any pyrotechnice, the whole task of the assembly could be disposed of, including the adoption of the revised code. There is thought to be little chance of this, however, and five months, or even six, is accepted as the more likely time to be consumed.

Court Conducted a Saloon. DES MOINES, Nov. 28 .- (Special.) -A remarkable discovery was made in district court today. Two months ago the wholesale and retail liquor firm of W. H. Parker & Co. assigned and the court named a re-ceiver for the business. No authority was given to continue the business, but the receiver did so. Today some of the creditors appeared in court to complain, and it was found that the court had supposed the place was closed all the time. The saloon is on a leading street and more frequented than any other in the city, but the judge had not known it was open. A peremptory order was issued to close it at once,

General Drake's Plans. DES MOINES, Nov. 28 .- (Special.) -- General Drake has gone home after a conference of several days with party leaders in this city. There is no more light on the plans of the next governor than before he came, but the impression is stronger than ever that he will make his appointments to suit himself. He has asked suggestions from leaders, but

About a year ago considerable excitement was occasioned here by the report that valuwas occasioned here by the report in what able fresh water pearls had been found in the Boone river, but the excitement died away, as people hardly believed it. A few men who had faith in the story at that time recently began a search of the river bod, and they have been rewarded for the time spent. They sent a small package of the pearls found to a Chicago jeweler, and for them received over $150. The pearls sell readily in the local market, and bring, if they are choice ones, from $5 to $20.
